

I CLAIM:

1. A new and distinct cultivar of Anthemis tinctoria plant is provided that displays:

- (a) a distinctive dwarf growth habit,
- (b) forms in abundance on a substantially continuous basis
- 5 attractive intense golden yellow ligulate blossoms,
- (c) forms non-viable seeds, and
- (d) is well suited for growing as attractive ornamentation in pots or in the landscape;

substantially as illustrated and described.